Heart-felt Smiles

[From the Standard.] "The smile that made the dark world bright. The love that made all duty light."

-Dean Stanley. We all number among our acquaintances some who are always sunnyfaced and smiling; to whom life has brought more sunshine than the most of us, and has spared them the sorrows which cloud the brows of many. Others we know whose natures are not lay to heart the the troubles that may come to them, or who, blessed with an unusual amount of buoyancy of spirit throw off easily all sorrow and care, and find something bright and hopeful in every possible situation. And others still we know who have had terrible heart-crushing sorrows to bear, and yet, whose natures are so unselfish, that they have schooled themselves to carry their sorrows for the most part in secret, and to interest themselves in others with sunny, thoughtful smiles and cheery woods. Well would it be were there more of this class, In this world we do have to struggle with tribulations of all sorts, and it is hard for most of us while meeting and fighting them to "be of good cheer." Yet true philosophy as well as the highest Christianity conince us that cheerfulness and a sunby temper lighten half the loads we

How great the influence of cheery words and smiling faces we cannot estimate. Poets and biographers have written on such themes over and over again, and we all cherish with peculiar joy the memories of those who brought sunshine and gladness into our lives, and oftentimes while carrying sorrows and burdens of their own; and yet we need continued prompting to increase the habit of cheerfulness. The thoughtful smiles and helpful words of such as these sunk deep into our hearts, when the meaningless smile of those who had country during the last yellow fever never known sorrow or trouble made | epedimic in the Mississippi Valley was no impression upon us. Frederick Robertson makes this record in his diary: "A lady just here told me the delight, the tears of gratitude which she had witnessed in a poor girl to whom, in passing, I gave price. a kind look in going out of church on Sunday. What a lesson! How cheaply happiness can be given! What op- States as a strategic point. It lies close, portunities we miss of doing an angel's sad feelings, then passing on and thinking no more about it; and it gave an hour's sunshine to a human life, and lightened the load of life to a human heart-for a time!" That kind look was meditated, it came from the heart. For an instant, the peacher allowed the thought of the poor girl to supplant his own "sad feelings," and the kind look was the heartfelt expression of his interest in her.

Can we believe that it gave her but an hour's pleasure? No. That kind, sympathizing look from the pastor we doubt not was a joy, and a comfort, and a help to her in many, many hours, and her heart and hope were strengthened by it more than they would have been by a sermon on submission to our condition, whatever it might be, or a cold, didactic homily, from the text, "In this world ye shall have tribulation." A sunny smile must be an unselfish one to be truly appreciated. It is not difficult to discern the difference between a facial smile and one that but that of this amount only enough comes from the heart. Those who like Robertson, forget themselves and their own sorrows for a time, to take a real interest in others, and to feel their troubles, get happiness to their own hearts by so doing.

Victor Hugo beautifully portrays the unselfish love of Jean Valjean for Cosette while living in the rude hut he had provided for her, which she irradiated with the sunshine of her sweet presence. He wrote: "When she entered it she filled it with paradise. Jean Valjean expanded and felt his own happiness grow with the happiness he caused Cosette." And he adds: "The joy which we inspire has this charming thing about it, that far from being weakened like ordinary reflections, it returns to us more radiant than before." But bow slow most of us are to learn this lesson! How selfishness tries to delude us into the belief that we are happier by seeking our own happiness, or indulging in our own griefs; and how many there are living thus sclfishly who are almost devoid of real hap- unknow stockholders (presumably the piness without understanding the

Yet how such hearts respond to a sunbeam flashing from a loving coul.

"If we were reaching after territory to increase our wealth and strength, as well also to protect the health of the nation, I should say that Cuba is the outlying island which the interests of the United States would naturally seek. First, as to its relation to health, Cuba is the natural home of pestilential diseases, especially yellow fever. Under the direction of our eminent sanitarians I have not the slightest doubt that the existing cause of this dreaded disease could be exterminated from every port of the territory of Cuba.

"The knowledge which science makes as to the propagation of the germs of yellow fever has put it in the power of health officers well provided with means to remove the breeding spots from the face of the earth, and I have not the least doubt but what it could be done were the island under our control.

"In point of economy it would be cheaper for the United States to buy the island from Spain at almost any cost rather than it should be a constant menace to the health and prosperity of the Southern States. The cost directly and indirectly to the business of the greater than the value of Cuba, even if you put it on a mere money basis. "In regard to its contributing to our wealth. Cuba in the hands of the Yankee people, and by that I mean the thrifty, energetic, inventive American race, would add immensely to our prosperity. It is a fertile island, and under the control of skilled labor its productive resources would doubtless be increased a hundred fold."

RICHMOND TERMINAL PLANS. The Gigantic Deal With Jay Gould Nearly Consummated.

NEW YORK, February 12 .- Messrs. Dow & Jones say: "We hear that the financial plan of the Richmond Terminal contemplates the authorization of an issue of $25,000,000 blanket bonds will be issued to take up the $4,500,000 of the Georgia Company, the preferred stock and the collateral trust beyond. The bonds needed to take care of the floating debt are said to have been sold last week." An officer of the Richmond Terminal is quoted as saying "The negotiations between the Missouri Pacific Railroad and the Richmond Terminal Company have been practically completed, although the papers have not been signed. As soon as this done work will be begun upon the line from Birmingham to Huntingdon, where the Iron Mountain road will connect with the Missouri Pacific. The money for completing this line has been provided."

A Talent for Wretchedness.

There are fortunate people who have what may be talent for happiness. Theirs is the habit of looking on the bright side. However perplexed the situation, however hedged about with embarrassments and obstructed by hindrances, they either see beyond it halcyon skies and a smooth pathway, or they manage to extract the present sweetness from its bitterness. In reading two books of recent travel, one the record of a solitary woman's adventures in the East, the other of another woman's travels by herself in the West, I was struck by the contrast in the two experiences. The pages of one are sprinkled with sunshine, and her ink has a golden sparkle. Those of go to books for our illustrations. The Reason Why

Ayer's Pills are so popular is, that while always reliable as a cathartic medicine, they never leave any ill effects. This is because they are purely vegetable, and entirely free from calomel or any other dangerous drug. In all cases, therefore, whether the patient be old or young, they may be confidently administered.

In the Southern and Western States, where derangements of the liver are so general, Ayer's Pills have proved an inestimable blessing. D. W. Baine, New Berne, N. C., writes:

"I suffered a long time with stomach and liver troubles. I tried various rem-edies, but received no benefit until I commenced taking Ayer's Pills. These pills benefited me at once. I took them regularly for a few months, and my health was completely restored." Throughout New England, next to lung diseases, Stomach and Bowel Complaints are the most prevalent.

Dyspepsia

and Constipation are almost universal. Mr. Gallacher, a practical chemist, of Roxbury, Mass., who was long troubled with Dyspepsia, writes:

"A friend induced me to try Ayer's Pills, and, after taking one box without much benefit, I was disposed to quit them; but he urged perseverance, and before I had finished the second box, I began to experience relief. I continued taking them, at intervals, until I had used eleven boxes. Suffice it to say, that I am now a well man, and grateful to your chemistry, which outstrips

"WE LOVE IT FOR THE ENEMIES IT HAS MADE"

Belford's Magazine.

It became the favorite Magazine

the South from the start. WHY! Because the educated South is DEMOCRATIC and wants an Government; because Donn Piatt, the editor, is aggressive y independent and a true patriot of a united country; Because its policy is that of all honest and educated persons: FREE TRADE, less governmental interference in personal matters, and good wholesome fiction; because the editor heartily welcomes SOUTH-ERN WRITERS, to its pages, e. g., the best literary production by an American writer since the war is "Old Man Gilbert, by a Southern lady, Mrs. Elizabeth Bellamy, in the June number; because the editor gives quality and quantity and not big names for your money; because the ablest perto me will please call sons of the country contribute to the pages of Belford's; such as Hon. J. G. Carlisle, Henry Watterson, James Whitcomb Riley, David A. Welles, Professor W. G. Sumner, Julian Hawthorne, Edgar Fawcett, Edgar Saltus, Sarah B. M. Piatt, Henry George, W. J. Florence, Roger Q. Mills, and hundreds of others; because the long novel in each number is alone worth twice the price. "The Lion's Share," in the January number, by a Southern lady, Mrs. Clark Waring, of Columbia, S. C., is a charming one. Subscribe .ow only $2.50 a year.
